

Program Page

SPECIAL CONCERT

Handel's Messiah

Michael Francis, Conductor

Sarah Shafer, Soprano | Katherine Beck, Mezzo-Soprano

Martin Luther Clark, Tenor | Sidney Outlaw, Baritone/Bass

The Master Chorale Of Tampa Bay | Matthew Abernathy, Artistic Director

Friday, Dec 8, 2023, Straz Center - Morsani Hall at 8:00 pm

Saturday, Dec 9, 2023, Mahaffey Theater at 8:00 pm

Sunday, Dec 10, 2023, Seven Rivers Church at 6:00 pm

George Frideric Handel (1685-1759)

Messiah (Oratorio in Three Parts)

PART I

1. Sinfonia

2. Accompagnato Comfort ye, my people

3. Air Ev'ry valley

4. Chorus And the Glory of the Lord

5. Accompagnato Thus saith the Lord of Hosts

6. Air But who may abide the day of His coming

7. Chorus And He shall purify

Recitative Behold, a virgin shall conceive

8. Air and Chor O Thou that tellest, good tidings to Zion

9. Accompagnato For behold, darkness shall cover the earth

10. Air The people that walked in darkness

11. Chorus For unto us a Child is born

12. Pifa (Sinphonia pastorale)

Recitative There were shepherds abiding in the field

13. Accompagnato And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them

Recitative And the angel said unto them

14. Accompagnato And suddenly there was with the angel

15. Chorus Glory to God in the highest

Recitative Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened

17. Duet He shall feed His flock

18. Chorus His yoke is easy, His burthen is light

Intermission

PART II

19. Chorus Behold the Lamb of God

20. Air He was despised

21. Chorus Surely, He hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows

22. Chorus And with His stripes we are healed

23. Chorus All we like sheep, have gone astray

24. Accompagnato All they that see Him, laugh Him to scorn

25. Chorus He trusted in God

26. Accompagnato Thy rebuke hath broken His heart

27. Arioso Behold, and see if there be any sorrow

28. Accompagnato He was cut off out of the land of the living

29. Air But Thou didst not leave His soul in hell

30. Chorus Lift up your heads

32. Air Thou art gone up on high

33. Chorus The Lord gave the word

34a. Air How beautiful are the feet of them

36. Air Why do the nations so furiously rage together

37. Chorus Let us break their bonds asunder

Recitative He that dwelleth in heaven

38. Air Though shalt break them with a rod of iron

39. Chorus Hallelujah

brief PAUSE and segue to Part III

PART III

40. Air I know that my Redeemer liveth

41. Chorus Since by man came death

42. Accompagnato Behold I tell you a mystery

43. Air The trumpet shall sound and the dead shall be rais'd

46. Air If God be for us, who can be against us

47. Chorus Worthy is the Lamb; Amen

Please scan for today's program. Also find program notes, artist bios, videos and more.
Or visit FloridaOrchestra.org

Hallelujah! It's time for another Messiah

Could any single piece of classical music be more popular and performed than the Messiah?

Yes, Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Pachelbel's Canon take in some pretty good numbers, but it's hard to avoid Handel's grand oratorio as part of our annual holiday tradition, including two performances by The Florida Orchestra and Master Chorale of Tampa Bay.

Death and taxes are two of life's guarantees, but there's a third, and it comes around every winter: Handel's Messiah.

Yes, Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Pachelbel's Canon take in some pretty good numbers, but it's hard to avoid this grand oratorio as part of our annual holiday tradition, including two performances by The Florida Orchestra and Master Chorale of Tampa Bay.

Like Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker, Handel's matchless wonder is a cash cow for arts organizations, a challenge for performers, and much-loved by listeners. But what makes this 282-year-old work so popular?

For one thing, Handel knew how to write a good tune, and Messiah has gobs of them. But more than melodies, it reflects something much deeper, says TFO Music Director Michael Francis.

"For me, it's the great and complex story of the most significant book of all time, the most influential story of all time," he says. "The subject matter is huge."

Some might argue that we hear too much Messiah and its ubiquitous Hallelujah chorus. Francis says it's a mindset.

"It's important to keep coming back to great works of art because we look at them at different angles as we change, as we get older," he adds. "For that reason, it's become a deep part of our tradition. It gives structure to the narrative of our life, and I find certain movements become more moving and encouraging as time passes. Aside from that, it's a sensationally beautiful piece of music."

Messiah is an oratorio, a large-scale work based on sacred text, but without sets, costumes, or action. Drawing from the Old and New Testaments, Handel designed it in three sweeping sections: Prophecy and Fulfillment, Suffering, and Redemption. Although religious, its message remains universal, and Handel intended it for the concert hall, not the church. Its theatricality is another reason for its popularity.

Handel also wrote Messiah in English, rather than German or Italian, which appealed to the middle class in England and Ireland, where the work first appeared back in the mid-1700s. This also made it easy to digest in the United States, and choral societies quickly got on the Messiah bandwagon.

Musically, the score is a hodgepodge of styles, including Italian (recitative), French (overture), English (anthem), and German (fugal) influences. Handel was, after all, a man of the world.

He also poured his soul into composing Messiah at a difficult period in his life. Several of his Italian operas at the time had been duds, costing him enough to nearly be thrown into debtor's prison. So he did what any good composer would do: He locked himself in a room and pouted awhile, then began writing in a burst of white-hot inspiration. Trance-like, he finished the score in a remarkable 24 days, going for long periods without food or sleep.

After completing the Hallelujah chorus, he wrote that he "saw heaven before me and the great God himself." Evidence of this inspiration can be seen on the facsimile of the original score: Notes become increasingly large and spaced apart, as if written in a fury.

The full score is a handful, to say the least. It includes 53 sections spanning 2-1/2 hours. Many productions cut it down, but keep the favorites, such as Comfort Ye My People, For Unto Us A Child Is Born, and the Hallelujah chorus. There are so many favorites, in fact, that editing the work is more challenging than performing it in full.

This brings us to the business of standing during that famous Hallelujah chorus, a tradition said to have begun in 1743, when King George II rose from his seat, enthralled by the beauty of the music. Not wanting to offend the king, the audience also stood – or so the story goes.

Scholars are divided on this tale, and some say it's a myth. But if people want to stand up and sing together, that's a good thing, and Handel no doubt would give his nod of approval.

Program notes by Kurt Loft, a St. Petersburg-based freelance writer and former music critic for The Tampa Tribune.